This 146 m² property is far more than a residence; it's a meticulously crafted hybrid, offering both a sophisticated two-bedroom main home and an entirely independent, licensed one-bedroom guest apartment. Strategically positioned within the enchanting Andalusian-style community of Mar y Monte, this estate promises a lifestyle of Mediterranean bliss alongside a proven, substantial income stream, making it an unparalleled choice for discerning investors and those seeking a luxurious primary or secondary residence.

The Quintessential Andalusian Retreat: Your Main Residence

Step into the primary residence, a haven designed for comfort and elegance. Spanning a generous portion of the 146 m² built area, this main house features two tranquil double bedrooms, each offering a peaceful sanctuary for rest and rejuvenation. A well-appointed full family bathroom serves these private quarters, designed with both functionality and style in mind. The heart of this home is its bright, expansive reception area. This welcoming space flows seamlessly, inviting natural light to flood every corner and providing direct access to the enchanting outdoor living zones, embodying the indoor-outdoor lifestyle so cherished in Southern Spain.

Beyond its current charm, the main residence boasts solid foundations and an incredible architectural scope.
